New Freshmen Introduced To College Activities

For the second year in succession the freshman class has a decrease in number from the previous year. This year the freshman registration totaled 218, a decrease of 22 students from last year's rolls. 101 science majors and 180 non-science majors constitute the freshman class breakdown. The senior class enrollment totaled 153 students; the junior class enrollment totaled 206 students, while the sophomores lead the individual enrollment with a high of 231 students. The total enrollment for the year has reached a record high of 815 students.

Cross-Section

The incoming freshman, who represent a cross-section of many of the secondary schools in the Baltimore area, were first introduced to the campus through the program of student orientation conducted by the Association of Student Orientation under the auspices of Duck Blair, the society's president.

The three day orientation program consisted of a series of addresses to the freshman from both the student officers and faculty members. Thursday's schedule was highlighted by a "Join-a-Club" Fair, which is held annually to promote freshman interest in the many diverse activities offered at the college.

Rugby and Dance

The Rugby Game, held annually between the freshman and sophomore classes, will be held on Oct. 5 at 3 p.m. on the Athletic Field. The Rugby Game officially terminates the orientation program, and the Freshman Welcome Dance will be held on Oct. 13, the following Saturday. This, the first dance of the year, promises to be a most successful and enjoyable event.

On Thursday, September 24, Loyola College inaugurated its 1962-63 academic year with the annual Academic Convocation and Mass of the Holy Ghost and the blessing of Maryland Hall.

Day's Program

The ceremonies of the day commenced with the blessing and formal opening of the new Engineering-Physics Building, to be known as Maryland Hall, by the Most Rev. Lawrence J. Shehan, Archbishop of Baltimore. The blessing was attended by Governor Tawes, Mayor Grady, and many other dignitaries prominent in the city life of Baltimore, and by many benefactors of Loyola College.

Following the blessing, the annual Mass of the Holy Ghost was celebrated in the Student Chapel by Archbishop Shehan; the sermon was delivered by the Most Rev. John J. Russell, Bishop of Richmond.

Honorary Degrees

At the Academic Convocation, Honorary Degrees were presented to Bishop Russell and to Major Herschel H. Allen, prominent Baltimore engineer. The principal address at the convocation was delivered by Welcome W. Bender, Director of the Research Institute for Advanced Study. Dr. Bender's address dealt with the importance of science in the modern world and the necessity of humanizing influences on science.

Undergraduate awards for the 1961-62 academic year were presented at the convocation.

New Facilities

The completion of Maryland Hall marks the first major addition to the College's classroom space since the completion of the Library Building in 1929. Besides physics-engineering facilities, the building contains sixteen classrooms, faculty and administrative offices, and Ruzicka Hall, an auditorium seating 200.

Rector's Message

Dear Men of Loyola:

It is my privilege as your President to welcome the returning upperclassmen to resume, and our incoming freshmen to begin, their part in the process of acquiring a liberal education.

Let me make it clear that I am using the word "liberal" in a fundamental sense of "freeing one from." For the purpose of the liberal education imparted by Loyola College is to free our specifically human faculties from the obstacles which prevent their proper and efficient functioning: thus the mind is to be freed from error and made ready for the acceptance of the truth; the taste is freed from evil and disposed to love the good.

From so auspicious a beginning as the annual retreat, and from the effects of the ceremonies of September 20 last, I am confident that these goals are real in your academic lives and will be attained with large measures of success.

May God grant that you cooperate generously with the graces which He will abundantly give you!

Sincerely yours,

Vincent F. Beatty, S.J.

Editorials The Whole Man

Another summer vacation has come and gone, and the campus at Evergreen is again crowded with students rushing hither and yon. The semester has just begun and each student has already made his plans for its successful completion.

Our freshmen have eagerly awaited the beginning of classes and the college life which is about to commence for them. The upperclassmen, our seasoned veterans, enter the fray with somewhat less enthusiasm than the initiates, because they are aware of the difficult work which is involved with the life of a student and which will be expected of them.

Although these two groups of students, the freshmen and the upperclassmen, are entering the semester with different attitudes, they are both alike in wanting to make the most of the time which they are to spend at Loyola. Both groups would like to prosper academically but both would also like to avail themselves of the rich social life which is also to be found here. Our extra-curricular program at Loyola can help them to accomplish both of these ends.

At the present time, there are almost thirty activities flourishing at Evergreen. Some of them are devoted to hobbies, others to providing a means of expression for the student, and still others to the enrichment of a student's knowledge in his own major field. All of these activities combine to form the "whole man" which is not only the subjective aim of the student but also the objective aim of Loyola College.

the Watchdog?!

Well, time to move ahead again in the 60's. For some of you, the tides will go out and for others the tides will come in. May all of you drink deeply from the sea of knowledge and truth.

Vocations

Answering the call to labor in God's vineyard, eight Loyola men have departed from their academic pursuits to enter various phases of the religious life.

Among these were three seniors who entered after graduation, and four sophomores and one freshman who entered after but a brief sojourn at Loyola.

John Dziwulski, from Holy Rosary parish, is an alumnus of Loyola High school and was graduated from Loyola College this past June. John entered the Jesuit Novitiate at Wernersville, Pa. Two classmates of John from both Loyola High and Loyola College are also novices at Wernersville. They are Dave Mulrooney of St. Rita's Parish and William O. Lorenz of Holy Trinity.

David Dimler also has entered the Jesuit Novitiate after the completion of two years at Loyola. Dave was graduated from Loyola High School and is from Our Lady of Lourdes Parish.

Charles E. Abel, a freshman, has left for St. Charles in Catonsville. Charles was graduated from Mt. St. Joe and is from St. Andrew's Parish.

During the last Retreat at one of the spiritual readings during supper, as we were about to dig into the goodies, the reader informed us of the day's selection: "This is Hell!"

Head Man

Carl Manfre, known as "football" because of the similarity between his head and a pigskin (without the Little hole and the words "inflate here," of course) has a brother in freshman year. If you think Carl gets kidded, dig his brother: 6'4", 224 lbs. of muscle, and a head the exact dimensions of a large bean.

Junior Frank Walsh just held a race in the elevators in Maryland Hall. The car that won has not been found as of yet! Hello Penthouse!!!

Puns O' Fun

Send in your puns for the big pun contest and I'll print "One Pun of the Week" starting next issue.

N.B.: I'm coming out with my own car this year. It's called "The Royal" because its a "two-door" model. OR/our chef is called Charles I because he makes good stew. He has sort of a "stew-art"...

It has been brought to the attention of the Greyhound that there was a mistake made in the announcement of the Jenkins Gold Medal for Debate. The award should not have gone to Joseph Peter Slawski but to Peter Joseph Slawski.

Con-Vocation

Although it was not announced, the President's office has just released the name of the student who is the recipient of the Rebstock Attendance Award; it is William H. Hoffman, in absentia.

ROTC News

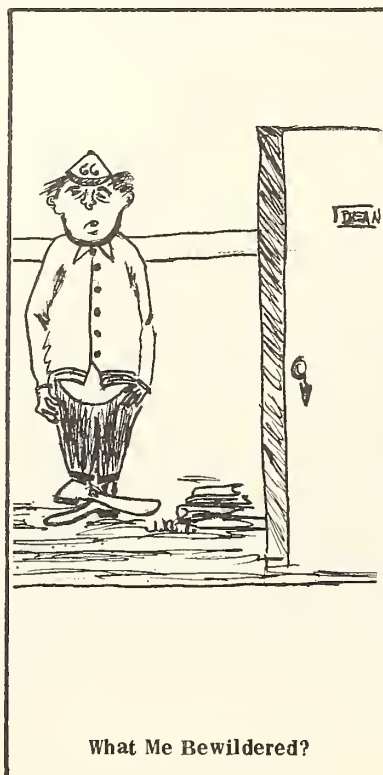

Donald W. Kalkman Jr. has been appointed by the Military Science Department of Loyola College as the Cadet Battalion Commander for the academic year 1962-63. Don, a graduate of Loyola High school, is the son of Donald and Marie Kalkman of Baltimore.

Upon entering Loyola College, Don immediately displayed his interest and ability in the Reserved Officers' Training Corps. Don has accumulated various medals and awards for his outstanding work.

Medal Winner

In his freshman year he was awarded the gold medal for the best individual soldier. The new cadet Battalion Commander duplicated this feat in his sophomore year.

The Chicago Tribune bronze medal for the cadet officer who displayed outstanding merit in his junior year in the spring of 1962. Majoring in economics, his post graduate plans include either a regular Army career or quality control work in the rapidly growing defense industry.

What Me Bewildered?

Council Clippings

By Denny Keating

The purpose of this column is to acquaint you, the student body, with the activities of the most important student organization on the campus of Loyola College, the Student Council. It is the Student Council which acts in the interest of the students in hopes of bettering the spiritual, academic and social life of Loyola College.

Current Members

The President of the 1962-63 Student Council is Martin Snyder. The other members of your Council at present are: James Berger, Charles Blair, Basil Brown, Paul Caruso, Thomas Cosgrove, James Kane, Dennis Keating, Paul Montgomery, James Nosker, Charles O'Donnell, Robert Quirk, Anthony Rivezzo, Michael Rohm, William Scholtes, and Francis Walsh. The seventeenth member of the Council, our distinguished Parliamentarian, Richard Lawrence of the Class of 1964, recently entered St. Mary's Seminary to pursue a religious vocation. His successor will be chosen in the near future. The faculty moderator is Dr. Hans Mair of the Social Science Department.

The Student Council has already acted upon several measures. It has provided more suitable magazines for the Student Lounge, and passed a resolution offering its public support for a policy of expelling forthwith any and all students convicted of theft of any kind after a fair hearing before the Committee on Discipline, regardless of academic standing or lack of previous disciplinary record. Furthermore, the Council has appointed a committee "to study and propose a plan for Missa Recitata for future Masses which the student body attends" and has recommended a poll of the students by the Management Club to determine public support for a proposed speech course.

The two most significant projects considered by the Council thus far have been a proposed class ordinance and a proposed conference involving the Executive Committee of the Council and the Student Affairs Committee for the purpose of ascertaining the feasibility of instituting a joint Faculty-Student Judicial Body. These important measures will be discussed in detail in future columns.

Joe Kosiorek Leads Booters In Monday's Opening Game

Monday afternoon will mark the opening of the Hound Soccer season. The Loyola booters will play host to visiting Roanoke College in a 3 p. m. encounter. Last season, Roanoke defeated the Hounds by a 1-0 margin in a real squeaker played at the Virginia school. This game was just one of the many close games in which last year's hard-luck soccer squad came out on the short end of the count. This year Coach "Lefty" Reitz is hoping for improved scoring punch which he feels can put some of the close contests into the win column.

GREYHOUND SPORTS

by Tom Kenney

In the late summer, long before many Loyola students were thinking very much about school, Loyola's Soccer and Crosscountry squads began preparations for their prospective openers, this Monday afternoon, October 1. Lefty Reitz's booters began workouts on the day after Labor Day. Many of the harriers have been running all through the summer months.

Key Members Gone

Both the Soccer and Crosscountry Teams have lost key members from last year's squads. Co-captains Jim Kennedy and Charley Graham, as well as fullback Rick Campbell, are missing from the Soccer forces via graduation. These three men were consistent and important performers for the booters. Likewise the Crosscountry squad will miss M-D Champ Rick Frampton and Captain Lew Smith, Loyola's two best runners last season. The ability of coaches Lefty Reitz and Bill McElroy to fill these gaps will in large measure determine the success of Loyola's Soccer and Cross-country fortunes this fall.

Fan Support

A little bit of encouragement from the sidelines never hurts an athlete's effort on the field. Let's have a good crowd on hand on Monday afternoon to lend their very welcome support to these fine Hound teams.

Herget Captures London Swim

Ted Herget, a former breast-stroker for Loyola College, where he graduated this year, is now swimming in the Lloyd's of London League, representing the insurance brokerage firm of Wright, Deen and Co., Ltd., of that City.

Ted was victorious in a 100 yd. freestyle event last week and is now training intensely for a meeting to be held in October in which he is entered in breast-stroke, freestyle, and relay events.

Ted is in London making a study of Lloyd's Insurance Market.

Roanoke Invades Loyola For X-County Contest

This Monday, October 1st, Loyola's Crosscountry Team will open its season with a dual meet against Roanoke College. The meet will be held between halves of the Loyola-Roanoke Soccer contest, scheduled for Monday afternoon at 3 p. m.

Last season the Hound Harriers fought to a 28-28 standoff with Roanoke enroute to their fine 5-1-1 record.

This season's Hound team will sorely miss two of last year's standout performers, Rick Frampton, Mason-Dixon champ, and Captain Lew Smith, both of whom have departed from the Loyola scene. Coach Bill McElroy will have to find replacements for these two key operatives if the Hounds are to have a successful season.

Returning Lettermen

Heading the returnees to this year's squad are team captain Tom Kenney and his fellow seniors, Hank McGraw and Bill Jenkins, all of whom are three year Loyola veterans. Juniors Denny Voith, Dan Leubecker, Mike Kenney, and Bill May will also be heavily counted upon.

The Harriers' schedule, which is printed below, lists seven dual meets in addition to the Loyola Invitational and Mason-Dixon meets which will be held on the final two Saturdays of the season.

Bright Outlook Seen For Hound Cagers

The 1962-63 season will mark Nap Doherty's second term at the helm of Loyola College's Basketball fortunes. Last year, the freshman mentor led his charges to a fine 9-3 won-lost record in the Mason-Dixon Conference. The Hounds finished second in the northern division of the Conference and highlighted the year by winning the first annual Loyola Invitational Tournament.

Although the Green and Grey forces suffered three losses to graduation, including Captain Tony Torba, this season's outlook is promising. Heading the returnees is the Hounds' diminutive captain-elect, Charlie O'Donnell. Sparkplug Charlie stands out primarily as Loyola's floor leader by virtue of his uncanny playmaking ability.

One of the big reasons for Loyola's success of last year was the surprisingly strong performance of its freshmen trio--Marty Maher, Pat Flynn and Billy Morris. These three will be back with a year of experience under their belts.

However, this year Loyola will have no freshmen players on the Varsity squad due to the increased enrollment of the College. Thus the Hounds will have to go with what they had last year--plenty of hustle and scoring punch, but a woeful lack of rebounding strength. However some help for Flynn under the boards from seniors Phil Potter, Don Wallenhorst and Tom Keys could provide better rebounding and a better season.

Judging from workouts thus far, the Hound lineup should look like this. The front line will be headed by Captain Joe Kosiorek at inside-right and Denny Grabowski, the team's top scorer, at center-forward. John Kircher, Carl Manfre and Jack Palmer will be the other starters in the frontline.

The halfback contingent will be composed of vets Mike Elliott, Sam Amato and Harry Bregel. At fullback, Johnny Campbell will be helped out by two newcomers to that position, Bill Harbold and Vince Petroniero. Paul Cashour will again tend the Greyhound goal.

Intramural Items

Play was due to begin in the Intramural Football League this morning but a lack of entries may necessitate a postponement of the opening games to a later date. The Intramural Department hopes that all those planning to enter teams will do so quickly so that play can get underway as soon as possible.

Tennis Tourney

The first contests of the Intramural Tennis Singles Tournament are also due to begin this morning. Thus far there are six entrants in the Tennis competition: J. Robert Malco, Gary Klein, John and Bill Mitchlerling, Robert Kujawa and Denny Keating.

Intramural Times

Intramural play will take place this year in the activity periods on Wednesday and Friday and at any other times when a team or individuals have free periods. An Intramural schedule will be posted on the bulletin board in the basement of the gymnasium.
